GOOD Contents and Indexes

Collection of papers relating to the work of Simon Goodrich, engineer and mechanist to the Navy Board

Compiled by Robert Sharp

GOOD

Simon Goodrich (1773-1847) was appointed draughtsman to the mechanist in the office of Samuel Bentham, Inspector General of Naval Works, in December 1796. In October 1799 he was appointed mechanist until December 1812 when the Inspector General's Office was abolished. In April 1814 he was reappointed as engineer and mechanist to the Navy Board, a post he held until his retirement in 1831. The Goodrich collection of papers has been in the Science Museum since 1875 and the subject of two papers by E A Forward read before the Newcomen Society. Entitled "Simon Goodrich and his Work as an Engineer : Compiled from his Journal and Memoranda", part I 1796-1805 appeared in the Society's Transactions 3, 1922-23, pp. 1-15 and part II 1805-1812 in 18, 1937-38, pp. 1-27. Part III 1813-1823 by A S Crosley appeared in 32, 1959-60, pp. 79-91. The listing of the papers at GOOD A is partly based on a useful but inadequate 25 year old listing. The listing of the drawings at GOOD C is based on an original listing which appeared in Transactions 19, 1938-39, pp. 249-65. GOOD A is in four parts; each part is Inv. no. 1967-200
